

HUMDV 112 : Occupational Exploration

Credits 1-2

Emphasis on informed choices relating to careers. Self-assessment, occupational information, and current labor market trends stressed. Assess individual skills, values, interests, attitudes, and approaches to decision-making.

Course Outcomes

Student will become familiar with occupational information available.

Student will be able to use computer software and the Internet for occupational information.

Student will complete interest inventories, personality analysis, and values assessment designed to assist in career decisions.

Student will be able to clarify and/or validate occupational choices.

Students will be aware of other sources of information regarding career options both on and off campus.