

DRMA 107 : Theatre Production and Design

Credits 5

Quarter Offered Winter

This course provides instruction and experience in technical theater through lecture, readings, and practical experience. Students will work together as a production team to assist in the design and production of the play being performed within the quarter. This class may include students from multiple sections. (Elective)

Course Outcomes

Create meaningful and functional design for theatrical performances.

Operate the basic systems in a theatre.

Respond critically to various theatrical performance designs.

Work collaboratively as a member of a technical stage crew and participate effectively in production meetings.