

TM-BAS 310 : Principles of Tribal Planning

Credits 5

Quarter Offered Spring

This course is for someone that wants to learn the complexities of land and planning within Indian country, focusing on planning and management. This class may include students from multiple sections.

Must be seeking a Bachelor of Applied Science in Management degree to enroll. If interested, visit pencol.edu/bas

Course Outcomes

1. Define and explain contemporary tribal organization theory.
2. Describe the importance of effective and efficient tribal planning.
3. Evaluate economic, political, and cultural variables that affect organizational development.
4. Summarize leadership roles and responsibilities related to effective tribal organizational development and operation.